

Retreat from Globalisation? Brexit, Trump and the New Populism

WEDNESDAY, 31 MAY 2017

ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY STANDING COMMITTEE FOR INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

- 8.45am Registration
9.00am Welcome
9.15am Keynote Address: Minister for Foreign Affairs and Trade Charles Flanagan
9.30am PANEL 1—Chair: John Doyle
Eoin Micheál McNamara (University of Tartu): A Time for Alternative Options?
The Trump Administration and Security in Northern Europe
Anjoo Sharan Upadhyaya (Banaras Hindu University, DCU):
Trump, Brexit and India's Concerns
Niall Duggan (UCC): China a new liberal World Order?: A Study of China's Role in Global Economic Governance
11.00am Tea and Coffee
11.30am PANEL 2—Chair: Kate O'Malley
Niamh Reilly (NUI Galway): A New Feminism for the New Populism
Maeve Cooke (UCD): Pluralism and Populism
Owen Worth (UL): Globalisation and the 'far-right turn' in International Affairs
1.00pm Lunch (not included)
2.00pm PANEL 3—Chair: Michael Breen
Nat O'Connor (UU): Political Reactions to the Rise of Economic Inequality
Mathew Creighton (UCD): More intolerant or simply more open about it?
The effect of Brexit on the extent to which anti-immigration sentiment is hidden in the UK
Tetyana Lokot (DCU): Public Networked Discourses in the Ukraine-Russia Conflict:
Digital Populism and Self-Presentation of "Patriotic Hackers" on Twitter
3.30pm Tea and Coffee
3.45pm PLENARY PAPER—Chair: Mervyn O'Driscoll
Michael E. Cox (LSE): Retreat from Globalisation? Brexit, Trump and the New Populism
4.30pm ROUNDTABLE—Chair: Colin Wrafter
Simon Carswell (Irish Times)
Jennifer Todd (UCD)
Agnès Maillot (DCU)
Paul Gillespie (UCD)